Mr. Cruttenden was the first witness for himself. Through his testimony it was shown that the basis of mony it was shown that the basis of his claim for a commission from Mr. Williams for selling Pine Island to Morton F. Plant was through corre-spondence and conversations with Mr. Williams in which it is claimed that he accepted Mr. Cruttenden as anagent to sell the property and that there was an agreement that it would be sold for $20,000, on which Mr. Cruttenden was to receive 5 per cent., or $1,000 as a commission. He was also to be paid, it is claimed, one-half of the excess over $20,000 which he might be able to obtain. Letters and telegrams, about obtain. Letters and telegrams, about 25 in all, were produced in support of this claim. The negotiations were in 1963. Mr. Cruttenden wrote to Mr. Plant, who was in Europe at the time, but Mr. Plant's secretary replied. At another time, Mr. Cruttenden testified, he saw Mrs. Plant at Eastern Point about the buying of the island. In it he made a general denial that he owed Mr. Cruttenden any commission, stating that the island was sold for $20,000 to Mr. Plant through Fred E. Kelly of New York, who reached Mr. Plant through a Mr. Schuyler, a close friend of both. A commission of $500 was paid to Mr. Kelly. Mr. Williams stated in his deposition that he took the island as position that he took the island as stock in a financial deal and at that time did not consider it was worth more than $5,000 or $6,000. There was more than $5,000 or $6,000. There was a fish factory on it. He claimed that at a certain time he gave notice to Mr. Cruttenden that he considered him out of it on the sale of the island and notified him he was negotiating with Mr. Plant through a New York broker. He never had any bill or claim from Mr. Cruttenden until the suit started, which was nearly six years after the sale was made.
